

This model policy is intended for adoption by companies receiving emergency lending from the federal government.

If other companies are interested in adopting these guidelines, they may choose to alter metrics based upon industry size, company size and market sector.

Model Board Policy for Approval of Meetings, Events and Incentive/Recognition Travel

1. General policy statement: The CEO shall be responsible for implementing adequate controls to assure that meetings, events and incentive/recognition travel organized by the company serve legitimate business purposes and are cost justified.
2. All proposed meetings, events and incentive/recognition travel organized by the company must serve one or more specified legitimate business purposes (see representative listing attached). Each proposed meeting, event or incentive/recognition travel with a cost exceeding $75,000 must be supported by a written business case identifying a specific business purpose.
3. Total annual expenses for meetings, events and incentive/recognition travel shall not exceed 15 percent of the company's total sales and marketing spend.
4. The amount spent for an employee performance incentive/recognition event shall not exceed two (2) percent of the total compensation of eligible participants or 10 percent of total award earners' compensation.
5. The process for approving meetings, events and incentive/recognition travel, and the procedures for assuring adherence to this policy, will be subject to independent audit to confirm policy adherence.
6. At least 90 percent of incentive program attendees shall be other than senior executives (as defined by applicable Treasury Department guidelines) from the host organization.
7. Performance incentives shall not promote excessive or unnecessary risk-taking or manipulation of financial results.
8. All internal meetings or events attended only by senior executives (as defined by applicable Treasury Department guidelines) and/or board members shall be devoted to specific business purposes, and participating senior executives shall be responsible for any expenses incurred for non-business related activities.
9. The CEO of the company shall certify to the board at least annually that the foregoing policies are being followed, and are sufficient to provide reasonable assurance that the company's expenditures for such purposes are not excessive.
10. These policies shall be subject to modification only with board approval stating the specific business rationale for the change in policy.

This model policy is intended for adoption by companies receiving emergency lending from the federal government.

If other companies are interested in adopting these guidelines, they may choose to alter metrics based upon industry size, company size and market sector.

Examples of Legitimate Business Purposes for Meetings, Events, Incentive/Recognition Travel

As with all business expenditures authorized in these challenging circumstances, all proposed expenditures for meetings, events and incentive/recognition travel should be made to strengthen the competitive position of the company in the marketplace and position the company for the creation of long-term value and growth. Below is a representative list of legitimate business purposes for meetings, events and incentive/recognition travel.

- Effective product launches to educate sales force, channel partners and customers.
- Sales conferences and employee meetings to align vision, strategy and tactics.
- Training and staff development meetings – learning environments conducive to adult learning and professional development, improving participants’ skills at their trade and/or their familiarity with the company’s products or services.
- Employee recognition programs to motivate and reward employees for achievement and productivity.
- Professional conferences that provide networking, education and best practice sharing across companies and industries.
- Performance incentives with clear rule structures that are designed to motivate and reward high performers for exceeding established goals that generate incremental revenue growth for their respective organizations and that are beyond the investment in the program.
- User conferences for customers utilizing the company’s products or services to obtain feedback, build networks, provide product training and capture ideas for enhancements to the company’s product offerings.
- Product development events designed to generate feedback for research and development purposes.
- Corporate-sponsored events that further charitable purposes.
- Trade shows and similar events that bring prospective buyers and sellers together.
- Strategic, business and financial planning and review meetings.
- Employee meetings as a result of company mergers and/or acquisitions for the purpose of alignment of products, brands and cultures.

March 17, 2009

Congressman X
U.S. House of Representatives
Washington, DC 20515

By FAX

Dear Congressman X:

I am the owner/operator of XYZ company in X town in X state. We've been providing pre-arranged ground transportation service by bus, van, sedan and limousine service in X state/s since X and we employ X employees on a seasonal or permanent basis. Like most small businesses, my employees and I have sacrificed in order to survive in this difficult economic climate. Also like most businesses, our income is down more than X percent from normal due to financial problems we did not cause and we cannot repair.

While my small business will not receive any TARP assistance, I have tolerated my tax dollars bailing out the large banks and AIG because I believed that helping these companies and the thousands of small businesses that depend on them is the best choice for the current circumstances. However, I am deeply concerned about efforts by the Administration and some in Congress to criticize or sharply limit business travel and conferences for TARP recipients or other publicly traded companies. These proposed travel limits will have a crippling impact on my business.

We understand the need to address public criticism about some excessive corporate travel or conferences. To address these criticisms, the National Business Travel Association and the US Travel Association, along with the National Limousine Association and other trade associations and unions representing hotels and hospitality services in the tourism and travel sector, have adopted a set of responsible business travel policies for corporate recipients of American taxpayer money. We agree that TARP fund recipients should be stopped from squandering excessive amounts on lavish events, and our industry calls for responsible change in corporate spending practices. These travel policies will regulate corporate travel expenditures but not unduly punish the travel and hospitality service sector that make up 10% of US GDP.

Our recommended policies (detailed below) will ensure that all corporate meetings, events and incentive travel are to be exclusively for legitimate business purposes, are subject to executive board approval and a certification that expenditures for such purposes are not excessive. Further, we insist the majority of event attendees be outside of the senior executive class and total annual expenses for corporate travel not exceed 15% of the company's total revenue.

We appreciate your commitment to serving the businesses which you represent. The (X state) Limousine Association and the National Limousine Association, along with the employers who form the hospitality service sector in your district, appreciate your efforts to defend our livelihood. We hope you will oppose efforts to choke off responsible business travel and support our efforts to get the Department of Treasury to adopt the industry's responsible travel guidelines.

Sincerely,